Subject: Dico Stripping Tower Update

Tonya, as you are already aware, the replacement of the packing media and water spray nozzles inside of the stripping tower at Dico began last week. Some of the packing media was removed to gain access to the water spray nozzles at the top of the stripping tower. During the replacement of the water spray nozzles, the water dispersing header broke (water spray nozzles attach to the water dispersing header).

A new water dispersing header has been ordered and is expected to arrive on Friday, September 15th. Replacement of the packing media, water spray nozzles, and water dispersing header will resume as soon as the new water dispersing header arrives. I will let you know when the water dispersing header has arrived.
